

work of higher kingdoms for human consciousness development

⁵ When the science of invocation and evocation, which still awaits its elucidation, is generally understood, it will supersede that praying for help which is generally directed to the godhead. When mankind, or a significant portion of it, can reach such an intensity in emotional and mental respect that these energies become stronger than the energies of the common bad reaping, then according to the Law a request for intervention of higher kingdoms must lead to results. But this is possible only if mankind does everything in its power to do. According to the (page 10) law of compensation all gifts received command a corresponding price. Selfishness cannot achieve the necessary conditions. The godhead does not demand anything for itself but requires that mankind be more humane and settle up internally so that right human relations arise. This facilitates the work of higher kingdoms for human consciousness development.
