

In those two worlds the fools may romp for eons

²²In respect of consciousness the emotional and mental worlds are “intermediary” worlds, interesting phenomena with their emotional illusoriness and mental fictitiousness, both excluding objectivity. Imagination has full scope there, shaping matter as it wishes and letting ignorance play dictator or god. Thus those two worlds are the worlds of deception. That is a truth which thinking people should have no difficulty in realizing when studying the physical effect in world history.

²³In those two worlds the fools may romp for eons until they have seen that they are meaningless in respect of reality and development; learnt that arbitrariness creates chaos, that lawfulness is a necessary condition for a cosmos, that law is the basis of everything, that basis which makes method and system possible; won the insight that the discovery and application of the laws of life by common sense is a condition for consciousness development.

²⁴Man creates and adores what he has created, becomes the slave of his products, the victim of the illusions and fictions he has decided to regard as his soul and his god.
