

smallest possible part of primordial matter

<sup>1</sup> The monads make up the sole content of the cosmos. The monad is the smallest possible part of primordial matter and the smallest possible firm point for individual consciousness. If at all one should try to imagine a monad, one would perhaps come closest picturing it as a point of force.

<sup>2</sup> All the material forms existing in the cosmos consist of monads at different stages of development. All these compositions of monads are being formed, changed, dissolved, and re-formed in innumerable variations, but the monads' matter aspect remains eternally the same.

[...] Continue reading, scroll to 1.12 The Monads

THE MATTER ASPECT

1 THE PROBLEMS OF REALITY, PART ONE

Translated from Swedish in the hylozoically direct style.
Original books of essays are found on the drop-down at laurency.com on top-left of page. hylozoicExcerpts